“With an ability for making liveable and sustainable spaces, MAKE is at the forefront of domestic architecture in Australia.”

Anna Johnson
Architecture Review 2013

MAKE is a Melbourne based architectural practice with a strong focus on quality and a passion for good design. Our buildings are designed to respond to the seasons and careful thought is put into how spaces are occupied. Believers in quality not quantity, MAKE look for efficiencies and delight in the design of our buildings. We focus on ways that these buildings can make our lives better.

Each project is a collaboration between us, our clients and builder and all the aspects of the building process are carefully considered. Through this collaborative approach we don't overlay a prescribed style, instead preferring to let the client brief and context drive the outcomes. A sustainable ethos, responsible social agenda and a site responsive design process form part of every project and present an opportunity to contribute positively to the fabric of its place.
